Don't Let's Go to the Dogs Tonight (An African Childhood) by Alexandra Fuller - First Edition Hardcover (Random House 2001). A searing memoir of a white family clinging to lives in Africa as Rhodesia became Zimbabwe lays out, without moralizing or sentimentality, the way in which turmoil and injustice in society distort the lives of families and individuals. No one has ever written a book about growing up white in rural Africa the way Alexandra Fuller has. Her voice is mordant, her unsentimentality is a pleasant shock, no "candy-covering" here. Her sense of humor is extremely sly. Without a trace of pretension, she quietly relates a child's experience in a brawling, bad-luck family on the losing side of an anti-colonial war. Don't miss this one!
